

Delhi Police not to allow more than 1 000 protestors at Jantar Mantar

NEW DELHI, NOV 28 - If the number of protestors at Jantar Mantar goes beyond 1,000, they will be asked to go to Ramliya Maidan, which can accommodate up to 50,000 persons, is among one of the guidelines of Delhi Police for people protesting there.

Citing these guidelines, Delhi Police is holding talks with the All India Kisan Sangharsh Samiti Coordination Committee (AIKSCC), which will be marching towards Parliament on November 30. Police said they will stop the protestors at Ramliya Maidan since it is expected that the number of protestors will be close to 30,000. According to the order, protest at Jantar Mantar shall be organised between 10 am to 5 pm. Earlier, Jantar Mantar had become a hub to many groups protesting for various causes, the guidelines prohibit pitching tents or temporary structures at Jantar Mantar "even for a temporary period".

"Multiples protests in a day may be allowed subject to availability of suitable timings and appropriate time gap but the limit of total 1,000 persons shall be adhered to," the order said. Any organiser bringing in protestors exceeding 1,000, despite submitting an undertaking, will be considered as a deliberate attempt to violate the orders of the Supreme Court. "Such organisers and their protest will be video-graphed and their non-compliance as well as non-cooperation shall be considered not only for legal action as deemed appropriate but will also be kept on record to consider while giving permission to them for their future protests," the order added. According to the order, maximum 25 buses of the protestors will be permitted in the jurisdiction of New Delhi district and parking of these vehicles will be allowed at Jai Singh Road or any other alternative place in consultation with the Traffic Police. "No tractors, trolleys, bullock-carts, cycle-rickshaws, or hand-driven carts shall be allowed. No animals like horses, elephants, camels, cattle would be allowed in a rally or dharna," the order stated.

DMK ups ante on Mekedatu project; convenes meet to chalk out plan

CHENNAI, NOV 28 - The DMK today called for a meeting of its alliance and friendly parties here Thursday to deliberate the Central Water Commission (CWC) allowing Karnataka to prepare a Detailed Project Report (DPR) for a balancing reservoir at Mekedatu on the Cauvery river.

A day after DMK president M K Stalin slammed the Centre for the nod, the main opposition party said the meeting would be held at its party headquarters on Thursday where it is expected to chalk out a political strategy on the issue. The CWC has recently given its go-ahead to Karnataka for preparing a DPR for a proposed balancing reservoir-cum-drinking water project at Mekedatu. Stalin had hit out at the AIADMK government as well for what he called the incumbent regime's "negligent" attitude that resulted in the Centre's permission to Karnataka.

The Leader of Opposition in the Assembly had wanted the Tamil Nadu government to approach the Supreme Court to obtain stay for the Centre's permission and Karnataka's efforts for a dam. On Tuesday, chief minister K. Palaniswami had urged the Centre to withdraw its permission to Karnataka for preparing a DPR for the project. Reacting to the Tamil Nadu government's demand, Karnataka chief minister H D Kumaraswamy had asserted that the project has to come into effect. (PTI)

Bill against NRI husbands deserting wives in next session: Sushma

HYDERABAD, NOV 28 - The government would bring a bill in the coming winter session of Parliament as part of its ef-orts to check the menace of NRI husbands abandoning their wives, external affairs minister Sushma Swaraj said today. "We have already launched an institutional mechanism, where you must have seen that 25 passports of such NRI husbands have been returned. We are also bringing a bill in this session where some more measures are being taken against those husbands," Swaraj told newsmen here. The minister, who was in Hyderabad in connection with the Bharatiya Janata Party's campaign for the December seven Telangana Assembly elections was replying to a query about Non-Resident Indian (NRI) husbands abandoning their wives. On November 13, the Supreme Court had also sought response from the Centre on a plea seeking mandatory arrest of NRIs deserting their wives and harassing them for dowry.

A bench comprising Chief Justice Ranjan Gogoi and Justices S K Kaul and K M Joseph issued notices to the Centre on the plea seeking that the deserted women be accorded legal, financial help and their estranged NRI husbands be arrested after the filing of FIRs. A group of women, who have allegedly been deserted by their NRI husbands and subjected to dowry harassment, have moved the apex court seeking reliefs including mandatory arrest of their estranged spouses and consular help in fighting cases in foreign land. Apollo Hospitals inks MoU with the Adlux Group Announces operations and management contract

EOI CORRESPONDENT

K O L K A T A / THIRUVANDRUR, NOV 28 - Apollo Hospitals Enterprise Ltd. announced their foray into Kerala by signing an operations and management contract relating to a 250 bedded super-specialty hospital in the fast developing town of Angamaly, the northernmost suburb of Kochi, with the Adlux Group as infrastructure partners. Apollo Hospitals would be responsible for all operations and management of the hospital.

The announcement was made by Dr. Prathap C Reddy, executive chairman, Apollo Hospitals Group in the presence of state's chief minister Pinarayi Vijayan. Located close to Kochi International Airport, the Apollo Adlux Hospital, scheduled to begin operations in four to six months, would provide world class healthcare services to people of all socio-economic strata in this region. Dr Reddy was speaking at a knowledge session to create awareness among people on emerging trends and treatments for cancer. Announcing the new hospital, he said, "We are happy to enter into God's own Country, Kerala with this world class super-specialty hospital class partnership with the Adlux Group. This is indeed a special moment for us and I am confident that Apollo Hospitals will be able to utilise its experience of 35 years to serve the people of Kerala through proven global practices augmented by cutting edge innovation in healthcare."

Kerala chief minister Pinarayi Vijayan lighting the ceremonial lamp to mark the beginning of the event

Under the agreement, Apollo Hospitals would reconstruct the PHC at Kakkodi, Kozhikode District and hand it over to the Government. Commenting on the same, Dr Prathap C

Reddy said, "It is our responsibility as healthcare custodians to contribute to the well-being of the people who have faced nature's fury this year. This PHC is a small gesture of our support to aid them in their recovery from the natural disaster." Mr Vijayan said that Kerala is known for high quality of life and has topped the health index as a result of better health infrastructure and services. He said that these advantages are now being challenged by new lifestyle diseases, adding that the threat has to be addressed through joint efforts of all the stakeholders.

The 250 bedded Apollo Adlux Hospital will have 50 beds exclusively dedicated for critical care. The hospital will begin services as a tertiary level care hospital with an advanced Oncology section planned for the next phase. The hospital will provide 24x7 round-the-clock super specialty treatment with experienced specialist doctors.

BJP's 'old trick' to rake up religious issues at last minute, won't work: Sachin Pilot

JAIPUR, NOV 28 - Accusing the ruling BJP of communal polarisation to deflect attention from real issues in assembly polls, Rajasthan Congress chief Sachin Pilot said raking up religious matters at the last minute is an "old, tried and tested trick" of the ruling party but it will not work now.

Pilot said no one was talking about the Ram Temple issue in the last four and a half years and now when the BJP is in all state assembly elections, it was "clutching at straws". In an interview to news agency PTI, Pilot also claimed that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) wanted to implement the 'Uttar Pradesh template' of not giving tickets to certain communities in Rajasthan, but was unable to do so because of the people of Tonk. "They (the BJP) are trying to create issues so that people's attention gets deflected," he said when asked about the Ram temple matter taking centre stage amid elections in five states. The Congress president said people want answers on issues like agrarian crisis, non-performing assets of banks, joblessness, internal security, inflation, and farmer suicides. "Nobody wants to answer those questions. So the easiest way out is to start talking about the mandir and masjid (temple and mosque) and Hindus and Muslims... It is not the job of governments to make churches, gurdwaras and temples. "The (Ram temple) matter is in the Supreme Court. Whatever the highest court of the land decides is and should be and will be acceptable to everybody. There is no room for debate," he said. Pilot wondered why people of certain parties 'raise the temple issue on the eve of elections, saying it shows a lot of insecurity in the hearts and minds of the people who are running the government because they have performed poorly. "To depend on the last minute tactic of religious issues is an old, tried and tested trick of the BJP," he said. (PTI)

High-level panel to chalk out plans on fate of people left out of final NRC in Assam

NEW DELHI, NOV 28 - The Union government has decided to constitute a high-level committee to chalk out plans on what to do with undocumented people after the final list of the NRC is published in Assam, officials said.

The decision to set up the committee, comprising representatives from the Centre and Assam government, was taken at a meeting convened by home minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday night and attended by Assam chief minister Sarbananda Sonowal among others. "The high-level committee will see what to do with those people who would be left out from the final list of the National Register of Citizens (NRC)," a senior official, who attended the meeting, told news agency PTI today. As of now, just about 10 lakh people out of the total 40 lakh, who were excluded in the draft NRC, have submitted applications for inclusion of their names in the list of Assam's citizens and have given relevant documents claiming that they are Indian citizens. The proposed committee will examine all available public opinion can be worked out with all undocumented people in Assam, the official said.

The official, however, refused to disclose whether the government will consider granting them work permit. With just about six lakh people submitting the applications for inclusion in the final NRC, this means 34 lakh people could not yet come forward to claim that they are Indians, probably they may not have proper documents, another official said. Following a directive of the Supreme Court, the process of filing claims and objections to the draft NRC began on September 25 and it will come to an end on December 15. Tuesday night's meeting was also attended by Union home secretary Rajiv Gauba and director of Intelligence Bureau Rajiv Jain besides others. West Bengal chief minister Mamata Banerjee had claimed that the NRC exercise was carried out with a "political motive" to divide people and warned that it would lead to "bloodbath" and a "civil war" in the country. Following exclusion of over 40 lakh people in the draft NRC, Mamata had also said those "Indian citizens have become refugees in their own land".

She had alleged the NRC was an "attempt to evict the Bengalis from Assam". The Supreme Court has also finalised a set of standard operating procedure (SOP) or disposal of claims and objections in the updating of the NRC. The draft NRC was published on July 30 and included the names of 2.9 crore people out of the total applications of 8.29 crore. There has been a huge controversy over the exclusion of 40 lakh people from the draft NRC. (PTI)

Shah attacks Cong, TRS over 'minority appeasement'

ADILABAD, NOV 28 - BJP president Amit Shah attacked Telangana's TRS government and the Congress today over "minority appeasement", claiming the Congress party's poll manifesto for the state assembly polls largely focused on the welfare of Muslims.

Addressing an election rally here, Shah said the TRS dispensation's decision to raise Muslim quotas in government jobs and state-run educational institutions to 12 per cent resulted in blocking of a proposal for hiring reservations for tribals. He said the K Chandrasekhar Rao government also talked about separate PC corridors for religious minorities. Quoting a national TV news channel, the BJP president said it leaked the Congress manifesto that envisaged quotas for minorities in government contracts. "And if you are not from minority community, you will not get contracts. Rs 20 lakh will be given for education of the students of minority communities. Congress will build separate hospitals for them. "Udu teachers' quota will be decided, and if you do not know Urdu, you cannot become a teacher in Telangana," Shah said, citing the TV channel's report, and calling the Congress manifesto "unconstitutional". The Congress manifesto, which was released a few days ago, however, promised free power supply for all temples, mosques, churches and other places of worship. It envisaged judicial power for Waqf Board and a sub-plan for religious minorities. It also spoke about releasing funds for repair of temples, mosques, and churches by introducing a "proper system". In his speech, Shah wanted to know if the grand alliance led by the Congress, and caretaker chief minister Rao can "liberate" Telangana from AIMIM of Hyderabad MP Asaduddin Owaisi, a vocal critic of the BJP. "This Rahul Baba, who is touring Telangana, can he liberate you from MIM? Can his allies TJS and CPI? Will they liberate you from the MIM? Can KCR liberate you from MIM," Shah asked the audience.
