Chandrayaan-2 mission on schedule: ISRO

SRIHARIKOTA (AP), JAN 12—The Indian Space Research Organisation today said the Chandrayaan-2 mission is on schedule and flight models are going through various tests. In Chandrayaan-2, the country's second mission to the Moon, ISRO is planning to rove to explore the lunar surface. "It is on schedule. We have to find out whether it is in March or not," ISRO Chairman S Kiran Kumar told reporters here in a response to a question.

Speaking after the successful orbiting of 31 satellites, including weather observation Cartosat-2 Series craft, by the PSLV-C40, he said the Chandrayaan-2 satellite was getting ready at the ISRO Satellite Centre.

The flight models were going through various levels of tests, he added. It would comprise an orbiter, lander and six-wheeled rover which would move around the landing site and instruments on it would send back data that it would be using in analysing the lunar soil.

After reaching the lunar orbit, the lander housing the rover will separate from the orbiter. After a controlled descent, the lander will soft land on the lunar surface at a specified site and deploy the rover. Director of ISRO's

Liquid Propulsion Systems Centre at Mahendragiri in Tamil Nadu S Somnath said tests related to Chandrayaan-2 were underway at the centre also. "What we are trying to do is to prove the ability to do a soft landing (the rover). Tests are on to demonstrate soft landing in a simulated way," he said. Terming it as a "wonderful task," he said "we are trying to complete it in a short span of time and that is going on right now".

To a query on whether there was possibility of ISRO carrying out manned space mission, Kumar said, "The possibility was always there for taking up such a mission but the government has to decide by giving resources." On the future launches to be taken up by ISRO in 2018, Kumar said the next launch will be a communication satellite. The GSLV-Mk1 first stage had been assembled and already completed integration. "They are going through process and it is targeted sometime next month (for launch)," he said.

Beyond that, there would be MkIII and another PSLV which will carry navigation satellite IRNSS-1I. "We also have a number of launches almost every month one launch and we are going to work towards that," Kumar, who is retiring later this month, said.

"We are trying to push the launch envelope to such an extent so that we have three of GSLV category and nine of PSLV category (this year). It is still quite a tough task," he said. Referring to the unsuccessful launch of IRNSS-1H on August 31 last year, he said it was a peculiar case. "Very marginal deviation created a problem. Not withstanding that what we did is we went through a rigorous process of analysing and have made the mission more robust," the ISRO chief said.

Kumar said to identify the cause of the incident, a team was formed which carried out various simulations and review process were taken up by the scientists. "Each time you encounter a problem you come out of it. You need not worry about the failure. If you have not failed it means, you have not tried hard enough. So, we need not worry about set backs," he said. Kumar said launch vehicle technology was a very complex thing and in spite of hundreds of successes, there can still be a failure. "That is why it is called as risky business. So what we need to clearly understand is that each time make the system more and more robust, learn the deficiency and keep improving," Kumar, who is retiring later this month, said.

"We also have a number of launches almost every month one launch and we are going to work towards that," Kumar, who is retiring later this month, said.

Director of Satish Dhawan Space Centre P Kunhikrishnan lauded ISRO scientists for opening the year with a success. "This mission proved the effectiveness of all corrective measures taken in PSLV C-40 making the vehicle more robust and reliable," he said. Multiple projects were underway at the spaceport to ramp up ISRO's launch capability, he said.

He said the second vehicle assembly building project was in the final phase of completion and it would meet the future launch requirements from the second launch pad. (PTI)

Why delay in recruiting 1540 special educators: HC to AAP govt

NEW DELHI, JAN 12—The Delhi High Court today sought the AAP government's response over alleged delay in filling up 1540 posts of special educators in municipal schools here.

A bench of Acting Chief Justice Gita Mittal and Justice C Hari Shankar further issued notice to the Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board and South Delhi Municipal Corporation on the plea alleging that till date the authorities have not even conducted the examinations for these posts.

The court asked the authorities to file their status report before the next date of hearing on January 23. The court was hearing an application moved by advocate Ashok Agarwal seeking direction to immediately issue directions for examination for filling up of the posts in terms of the advertisements issued in August last year.

It said that in pursuance to the high court's December 2016 order, the unified MCD had created as many as 1741 posts of special educators. "Out of this 1741 posts of special educator, the unified MCD had created as many as 1540 posts are still lying vacant, that means 89 per cent posts of special educators in MCDs run schools have not been filled up so far."

Agarwal submitted that the Delhi Subordinate Services Selection Board was "just sitting over the matter ignoring the seriousness of the same." The application was moved in a petition by Mamta Devi and her husband Shivam Nandan, who sell vegetables in Katwaria area in south Delhi. Mamta Devi has moved the court saying that her two sons with special needs have studied at government and municipal schools for years, but have learnt nothing and were rather made a source of entertainment. They said their disabled sons had stopped going to the school due to lack of special educators. (PTI)

Terminology as the "only way ahead", the chief minister said the appointment of Dineshwar Sharma as interlocutor last year was a "major decision" to undertake sustained dialogue in the state.

"He (Sharma) has been working in J&K for two to three months and saying that he wants to talk to everyone and 'visit everyone's home. (But) there is no response."

"What can we do? We are in favour of talks. Let people come forward for talks," she said, adding that the need of the hour is to get the state out of the vicious cycle of violence. (PTI)

K'taka home minister defends CM's 'terror' jibe at BJP-RSS

BENGALURU, JAN 12—Defending Chief Minister Siddaramaiah's "Hindu terror" jibe at the BJP-RSS, Karnataka Home Minister Ramalinga Reddy today said those who created an atmosphere of terror in the society were called terrorists.

"He (Siddaramaiah) had said extremism... those who create an atmosphere of terror in the society are called terrorists. Their (BJP-RSS) conduct is also like that," he told reporters in Mangaluru. Referring to certain controversial remarks of BJP MPs Pratap Simha and Shobha Karandlaje and Union minister Ananth Kumar Hegde, Reddy said looking at all this, it was clear that the intention of these people was to disturb peace in the society. "Those who create an atmosphere of terror in the society are called terrorists," he added.

In a no-holds barred attack, Siddaramaiah had on January 10 lashed at the BJP, RSS and Bajrang Dal had terrorists within their organisations, a charge rubbished by the saffron party. "They themselves are like terrorists in a way. The BJP, RSS and Bajrang Dal also have terrorists within," he had said, taking his attack on the Congress' principal political rival to a new level, ahead of the state Assembly polls due early this year. After coming under an intense attack from the BJP for his remarks, Siddaramaiah had yesterday called those associated with the saffron party "Hindu extremists".

Reddy earlier held a meeting with senior police officials of the Dakshina Kannada region for the second day. On the repeated violent communal incidents in the region, the home minister said the police department was functioning "efficiently, there is 100 per cent no failure on their part".

"Things will be fine if organisations here keep a silence and allow people to live peacefully, whether it is the PFI or SDPI or Bajrang Dal or RSS or BJP or Sirim Sena," he said. The BJP has been demanding a ban on Islamist outfit PFI and its political wing SDPI, holding them responsible for a spate of killings of Hindu activists in the coastal Dakshina Kannada district. On the other hand, the PFI has blamed Sangh Parivar outfits for the killing of Muslims in the region. (PTI)

Maha Cong seeks apology from Gadhkari for 'insulting' Navy

MUMBAI, JAN 12—The Maharashtra unit of the Congress today hit out at Union Minister Nitin Gadhkari for "insulting the Indian Navy" and demanded an apology from him. "Gadhkari should apologise for insulting the Indian Navy by saying he will not give an inch of land to Navy officers in Mumbai and asking them to go on Pakistan border. We condemn these remarks," Maharashtra Congress spokesperson Sachin Sawant said. Wondering why all Navy officials need to stay in posh South Mumbai, Ports minister Gadhkari had yesterday said "not an inch" of land would be given to Navy to build flats or quarters in the area. "Actually, Navy is needed at the borders from where terrorists sneak in. Why does everyone (in the Navy) want to stay in South Mumbai? They (Navy) had come to me, asking for a plot (of land). I will not give even an inch of land. Please don't come to me again," Gadhkari had said. Gadhkari's public displeasure came in the backdrop of the Navy declining permission for building a floating jetty at Malabar Hill in south Mumbai, where a floating hotel and seaplane service are planned. Sawant charged why Gadhkari was insisting on a floating hotel which can be threat to Mumbai's security. "This should be probed," he demanded. Sawant alleged that BJP's patriotism was sham and was not applicable to private companies. He claimed that the Navy took objection to help and redevelopment projects in South Mumbai due to security issues especially in the backdrop of the 26/11 terror attacks. The Congress leader said Gadhkari's comments were damaging the morale of Navy officers. (PTI)

Rs 3 lakh aid to kin of minor killed in police custody in HP

DHARAMSALA, JAN 12—The Himachal Pradesh government has announced an assistance of Rs 3 lakh for the next of kin of a minor who was killed in the rape-and-murder case of a girl in Kothkhal.

Chief Minister Jai Ram Thakur announced the aid while replying to the discussion on motion of thanks on Governor's address to the legislative assembly. The 16-year-old girl had gone missing in Hallia in Kothkhal area of Shimla district on July 4 last year and her bare body was recovered on July 6. After the postmortem report confirmed rape and murder, a case was registered and following public outcry, a Special Investigation team was constituted which arrested six persons. One of the six accused in the case died in police custody and eight police officers, including an IG-rank officer, were arrested by the CBI in connection with the custodial death. Thakur said the police's trust on the state police had gone down in the previous government's rule. "This government shall rebuild that trust," he said. Thakur said times have changed and the voters now want results instead of false promises. The chief minister charged the former Congress government of under-spending funds to provide employment for youth. "Only Rs 7 crore was spent by the last Congress rule on 20,000 youth under the employment allowance scheme. However, it had to provide employment to as many as 12 lakh youth," Thakur said, adding that providing employment to such a large number of youth was difficult but not impossible. "The new government would ensure employment by self-employment and by creation of jobs in public and private sector," he said. The chief minister said his government would speed up all the major projects in the state. He said he would rid the state of mafia and corruption of all kinds. "For this, my government shall require assistance and suggestions from the members of opposition also," he said. The house unanimously approved the motion of thanks to Governor's address with voice vote. The house stands adjourned sine die. (PTI)

"I am happy that children are respecting their parents' call, understanding their pain and returning home. Once they return, we do not call them to police stations and they go straight to their homes," she said. Mehbooba said another initiative was taken to rehabilitate those who were injured by pellet guns in 2016, by providing them financial help and government jobs.

Hope AMU student returns and join studies: Mehbooba

JAMMU, JAN 12—Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti today expressed hope that the AMU student who is said to have joined Hizbul Mujahideen would return home and continue his studies.

The chief minister made the comments while announcing an amnesty scheme for the first-time stone pelters during the motion of thanks on the governor's address in the state Legislative Council. Mannan Bashir Wani, a resident of Kupwara district who was pursuing his PhD in applied geography from Aligarh Muslim University was last seen at the campus on January 2. A photograph purportedly depicting him wielding arms appeared on social media on January 6.

On Monday, Hizbul chief Syed Salahuddin was quoted as claiming Wani's entry into the militant outfit. "His (Wani) class fellows and parents have made an appeal to him to come back. We hope he will come back and join them in studies," the chief minister said. Mehbooba also announced the withdrawal of cases against 9,000 first-time offenders since 2008, in an effort to reach out to the youth of Kashmir. "It (the cases) makes difficult for them (the first-time offenders) to get jobs and other benefits. We started the process in 2016, but had to stop it due to the unrest triggered by the killing of Burhan Wani. Once the FIRs are withdrawn, they should study and live a normal life as a common man," she said.
